Scotch and Soda...

...is Carnegie Mellon's student drama organization. Entirely student managed and staffed, it is a group dedicated to giving all students at the university the opportunity to be actively involved in theater, whether it be their major field of study or not.

The organization was founded in 1907 by a group of Carnegie Tech students calling themselves the White Friars. The original intent was to form a club to produce and perform original musical revues. By 1938, the White Friars had become Scotch and Soda, which remains today one of the most respected amateur drama groups at Carnegie Mellon and Pittsburgh. Scotch and Soda first produced "Pippin, Pippin", the original version of the Broadway hit "Pippin", by Steven Schwartz. The musical "Godspell" was also first produced by Scotch and Soda. These and other S'n'S productions have won many honors, including the prestigious BMI award.

In the Fall semester, 1986, Scotch and Soda offered two workshops in playwriting and acting. Both were very well received. At the end of the semester, the acting workshop students performed the pieces written by the playwriting workshoppers. Scotch and Soda is planning on holding similar workshops and performance opportunities in the coming Fall semester.

We at Scotch and Soda hope that you enjoy our annual Spring production tonight. If you are interested in getting involved in any aspect of the theater, we would love to hear from you. You may contact Scotch and Soda by stopping by Skibo 40D, the office, or by phoning 268-3522.
